

ADA Self-Evaluation & Transition Plan Public Meeting's

Summary and Update

In early August 2013, the Delaware Department of Transportation performed three public meetings statewide. The purpose of these public meetings was to receive the public's input regarding the proposed DelDOT ADA Title II Self-Evaluation & Transition Plan. The meetings were held across the state, including one in Georgetown, one in Wilmington and one in Dover. Over 50 people participated in the meetings. Others were able to view an online version of the presentation on the DelDOT website. The questions and comments were very diverse, ranging from concerns about access to DTC bus stops, to requests for more information on the inventory of noncompliant features and how DelDOT will provide funding for addressing those noncompliant features.

DelDOT is extremely grateful for the public's participation, which will continue through the evolution of the DelDOT ADA Transition plan for years to come.

Proposed steps to come:

- November 1, 2013 – Publish the questions and comments on the ADA/Accessibility website www.ada.deldot.gov , that were submitted by the public before the deadline;
- December 2, 2013 – Publish responses to the applicable questions;
- January 15, 2014 – Adopt the DelDOT ADA Title II Self-Evaluation & Transition Plan, which shall include some modifications, in response to the comments and recommendations made by the public.

Thank you,

John McNeal
